

Let's begin here.

Before you invest in a new furnace, replace your windows, or add a bathroom for your parents, consider the variety of rebates and grants available. The government is actively encouraging the transition to a cleaner, more efficient BC by offering support for home improvements that enhance temperature regulation, accommodate aging populations, and meet the needs of a growing population. From heat pumps to window upgrades, these incentives can help you make your home more functional and sustainable. Be sure to explore the options and see which rebates and grants might benefit you.
